MESSAGE FROM PATRON'S

"There are so many people who have great talents, but do not seem to use it. Many times you will be able to easily triumph over those who are gifted but unwilling to work hard enough to cope with your efforts.

Hard work and a good dose of determination can lead you anywhere, even if you are not the most talented in this area. Think about all those super talents in your preferred area of law. Only those talents who are willing to make an effort will be able to succeed. Otherwise, less talented people will outperform them with their boundless willingness to do extraordinary work."

Mr. Kantil Bam, Chairman, Icon Education Society

"Since 2003, Indore Institute of Law has been committed to advance Law and Justice in the service of society by dispensing value based standard legal education. This year, to inculcate research and open a research dialogue among students and industry experts we are pleased to announce the 1st International Conference on Alternative Dispute Resolution: Towards a road less travelled. CONCEPT NOTE

- To create a pathway for broader participation of Research Scholars, Academicians, and Students to share diversified perspective over Alternative Dispute Resolution and its multiple facets.
- To demonstrate the various ways in which effective development and regulatory structure can be formulated with regard to the growing field of Dispute Resolution.
- To evaluate the functioning and performance of dispute resolution and to lay down future roadmap to the way ahead for dispute resolution.
- To promote Alternative Dispute Resolution as a preferred manner of dispute resolution and to promote its efficacy as a career option amongst the student participants.

THEMATIC FOCUS

The philosophy of Alternative Dispute Resolution systems is well stated by Abraham Lincoln: "discourage litigation, persuade your neighbour to compromise whenever you can. Point out to them how the normal winner is often a loser in fees, expense, cost and time." Litigation does not always lead to a satisfactory result. It is expensive in terms of time and money. A case won or lost in court of law does not change the mindset of the litigants who continue to be adversaries and go on fighting in appeals after appeals. Alternative Dispute Resolution systems enable the change in mental approach of the parties.

Congestion in courts, lack of adequate manpower and resources and the consequent delay, cost, rigidity of procedure and lack of participatory roles, also spawns the need to look at better options, approaches and avenues. Alternative dispute resolution methodologies with a positive framework point to one such option.

The globalisation of economy and the complexities of modern commercial transactions demand speed and effective mechanism for resolving domestic as well as international disputes in the interest of smooth flow of trade and commerce and consequently the progress of peace and prosperity in the society. The thought prevailing around the world is for the development of alternative dispute resolution systems, also called as non judicial ways of dispute resolution such as arbitration, mediation, conciliation, negotiation and so on.

This conference thus focuses on the development of Alternative Dispute Resolution in the evolving progression of law and its impact on the existing judicial and commercial aspects in the global scenario.
